Market Summary

Economic Conditions

- The third release of U.S. GDP remained unchanged at 3.1% and continues to underscore a resilient economy amid prospects of lackluster global growth. While growth concerns abroad, namely in the Eurozone and China, are at the forefront of risks to the domestic throttle, the widely monitored “spill over” has not begun to rear its head quite yet.
- The Fed held short-term rates unchanged at the current target range of 2.25% to 2.50% at the June meeting. Fed Chair Jerome Powell acknowledged the consequences of escalating trade tensions and affirmed that the Fed will “act as appropriate to sustain the expansion.” Given this shift from a “patient” outlook, as well as subdued inflation and slowing global growth, the market now widely expects multiple cuts for the balance of 2019.
- The June jobs report reinforced strength in the labor market following disappointing job growth in May. In June, the economy generated 224,000 jobs, outpacing expectations of 160,000 and distancing the 75,000 May figure. The unemployment rate ticked slightly higher to 3.7% as the labor force participation rate increased to 62.9%--a good sign indicating discouraged workers are back seeking work.
- All eyes, including the Fed, are on lackluster inflation. The Consumer Price Index (CPI) indicates inflation near 2%, but the Fed’s preferred gauge, the Personal Consumption Expenditure (PCE) Index, indicates price pressures continue to drift shy of the 2% bogie. The real question at hand is how soft inflation readings will play into the Fed’s potential shift from recent tightening policy.

Market Reaction

- U.S. Treasury yields declined across the entire curve over the month, with maturities inside of one year falling more precipitously (down 20 to 25 bps) compared to those between one and ten years (down 10 to 15 bps), as dovish Fed comments weighed on the front end of the curve.
- As a result, the spread between the 10-Year and 3-Month Treasury securities “widened” modestly, albeit remained inverted, to -8 basis points (or -0.08%) off of the 10+ year low of -25 bps reached just four short weeks ago.
- All in all, while most US Treasury tenors ended the quarter at or near their 18-month lows, bond returns are strong and have continued to benefit longer-duration investors.
